A group of approximately 15-20 people are seated at long tables in a room, attending a panel discussion. The participants are mostly men, some wearing traditional Japanese festival attire (kimono or haori). In the foreground, several people are seen from behind, looking towards the front of the room. The room has large windows on the left side, providing natural light. A man in the center of the panel is holding up a smartphone to take a photo of the speakers. The overall atmosphere is that of a formal yet community-oriented event.
